

Educating the Next Generation

By Dorian Randall

From helping you build financial independence to breaking down the latest market headlines, education is an important aspect of our company. That's why we're so glad to have three new additions to the team via our summer internship program, where we train the next generation of advisors. Because you may hear from them as they help us help you, please allow us to introduce Yu-Hsiang Huang, Gabrielle Ledet, and Benjamin Turner.

Yu-Hsiang Huang is a finance major at Mississippi College. He is a member of Beta Gamma Sigma and wishes to help people along their own wealth management journeys and enjoy a better quality of life.

He loves playing and watching sporting events, just like he loves diving into market mechanics and navigating its unpredictable nature.

Gabrielle Ledet grew up in Richton, MS, where she graduated as salutatorian of her class. She's currently enrolled at Mississippi College pursuing a Bachelor of Science in Finance, while simultaneously enrolled in the Accelerated Master's Program.

Outside the classroom, Gabbi serves on the Board of Women in Business, is an active member of the Investment Club, and enjoys tutoring fellow students in finance. When she's not working, she can be found doing embroidery, reading, or out on the water. One of her favorite memories is personally witnessing the Nasdaq closing bell ceremony when SUMA Wealth, the financial app, went public.

Originally from Louisiana, Benjamin Turner is a senior at The University of Southern Mississippi. He enjoys learning about personal finance, investing, and business. He serves as the Treasurer for the Order of Omega Honor Society and recently obtained the Bloomberg Market Concepts Certificate via Bloomberg for Education, an online education platform operated by the global leader in business and finance information.

Outside of school, Benjamin enjoys fitness, being involved at his church, and looking for opportunities to help others in any way he can.

"Intelligence plus character – that is the goal of true education." – Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.